Debaters At Annapolis; Novices Second At A.U.

Four Loyola varsity debaters meet teams from nationally ranked colleges at a Naval Academy tournament held at Annapolis today and tomorrow.

The varsity men will be out to match the second place spot caught by Loyola's novice (first year) debaters at American U. last week. Nelson Cooney and Jim Sydnor will argue for the affirmative, John Baynes and Bob Goldsmith for the negative at Annapolis. Each team will debate five other colleges invited by the service academy on the national topic: "Resolved that Congress should be given power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Court."

Early Record

tournament, freshmen Ed Slawski and Ed Conery were undefeated in three rounds. With affirmative team Chuck Hollander and Bill Everhard they captured second place in the area wide meet. Slawski was third highest in number of points.

Baynes received highest number of points from his judges in each of his debates. Tom Curtis and the ubiquitous Tom Dwyer filled out the Greyhound representation at the meet.

Tomorrow Night Military Ball In The Gym

Tomorrow, November 21, Loyola's Gym will echo to the music of the Esquires, as the Eighth Annual Military Ball makes the scene.

Co-sponsored by Loyola's companies of the Scabbard and Blade, and Pershing Rifles, the Ball will be highlighted by the crowning of Miss Betty Pogge as Honorary Brigade Commander.

Mass To Follow

The dance will last from 9 until 1 A.M., and there will be Mass in the Chapel following for the convenience of those in attendance.

Council To Give Yearbook Plan Information

To answer any questions and clear up any misconceptions concerning the status of the compulsory Yearbook, the Student Council, at last Friday's meeting, passed a motion to prepare a statement regarding the Council's and Dean of Studies' positions on the matter. Included in this statement are to be a report on the summer meeting at which the decision was passed, and the major points of the discussion.

Insurance Report

The meeting, which was recessed until today, also featured a report by Hugh Coyle on the activities of his committee to look into the possibilities of new group insurance plans.

President Tom Dwyer then read a letter from Rev. Daniel Lawler, S.J., Faculty Sponsor of the Loyola Associates, asking the Council

Skits And Dance At Loyola Nite Nov. 25

Next Wednesday, November 25, the twenty-second Loyola Nite will appear in Cohn Hall at 8:30.

Short Takes

Air Force Commission

The United States Air Force will conduct a career day at Loyola on Tuesday November 24 at 10 A.M. in the Cafeteria.

Class Candidates

Today, November 20, is the closing date for Freshman and Sophomore candidacy petitions. Petitions will be accepted in the Registrar's Office until 3 P.M.

Pre-Med

Eight Seniors have received tentative acceptance to area medical schools, and there has been one tentative acceptance to the Maryland Dental School.

Douglas Hyde

Former managing editor of the London Daily Worker, Douglas Hyde, will lecture at Notre Dame of Maryland today, November 20, at 2 P.M.

The former Communist will speak on "Communist Global Strategy". The Public is invited.

I.R.C.

The Collegiate Council of the United Nations will meet at Towson State Teachers College, November 20, 21 and 22. Tom Curtis and Dick Moore will represent Loyola. The purpose of the congress is to discuss the refugee problem and to organize the CCUN on an active basis.

History Academy

Francis X. Gallagher, '50, Delegate for Baltimore's Third District, spoke to the John Gilmary Shea History Academy November 19 on Father Abraham Ryan, "Poet Priest of the South."

The Ryan Gold Medal, awarded to the Freshman attaining the highest average, was founded by Fr. Ryan.

Big Brothers

Francis X. Shevlin, Executive Director of the Big Brothers of Baltimore, spoke to the Management Club on his organization's work November 13.

He spoke of the organization's need for more men to help in their work with boys from broken or fatherless homes.

Conducted by the Dramatics Society, the program consists of a two hour variety show followed by an orchestra dance.

Rehearsals will be conducted Monday and Tuesday evenings for all those interested in appearing. Song and dance men, skits, monologs, instrumentalists and all other vaudeville favorites are welcome to the rehearsals. The major criterion for appearance will be entertainment value.

Co-Sponsor

This year the Green and Grey Club is working with the Dramatics Society on the affair. Tickets will be $1.00 per person available at the door.

An approximation to the Home coming on other campuses, many of the alumni return for the festivities.

Classes, organizations and individuals are invited to try out Monday and Tuesday nights for the program of variety entertainment.

Last Year

Last year's Senior Class predominated the show and Father Scanlan, entrepreneur, hopes that there will be better balance in this year's performance.

After the dance there will be a 1 A.M. Mass in the chapel.

Local Comment On "Othello" Production

by WILLIAM BAUERNSCHUB

Loyola's Evergreen Players exhibited a fair presentation of last week's production of "Othello". Cast, director, and staff received strong audience approval for an intelligent and tasteful mounting of a difficult play.

Paul Cawthorne's Iago captured the subtlety and craftiness of the part. His intelligent interpretation and excellent diction were beyond what one might expect from college theatre.

Nelson Cooney's Othello carried authority. His voice, deep, rich and resonant was an aural delight.

Mary Lou Donnelly's Desdemona was charming and graceful. Here again, precision in diction and line delivery carried the "freshman" performances of the supporting freshmen.

Costumes, lighting, and sets gave good support to a reasonably fair production.

Mary Our Queen

CATHEDRALS

I THE BUILDINGS

Loyola, home of the Chapel of Our Lady of Evergreen, hails her new neighbor of Charles Street, the Cathedral of the Mary Our Queen. The crowds attending last Sunday's dedication ceremonies and continuing through the week are evidence of the importance to the community of this long-awaited, magnificent, monumental and yet altogether gracious tribute to the Mother of God.

The physical beauty of the cathedral is mirrored in the photograph on page 4 of this issue. We urge any readers who have not yet visited the edifice to do so without delay. They will find a handsome expansion of the atmosphere of spiritual power which our own chapel generates.

II THE BUILDERS

Here we would pay tribute to Thomas J. O'Neill, the one man whose extraordinary bequest built the cathedral. How lavishly he spent of his substance to share his Christian faith with others. Loyola College, too, is a recipient of Thomas J. O'Neill's generosity. Gymnasium construction and certain other buildings on campus were in large measure made possible by his gifts.

Last week we editorially deplored Americans who compromised their integrity for money on television shows. This week we salute Thomas J. O'Neill and men like him: the donors of the Chapel of Our Lady of Evergreen and other benefactors of education at Loyola College, for their wise and high-purposed use of the resources entrusted them in this life by almighty God.

III THE BUILT

The new cathedral is close to Evergreen. This augurs well, we feel, for a continuation of the close association that has endured between the College in its century long history and the Archdiocese. Over 40 Loyola graduates are priests of the Archdiocese. Close to 3000 more are parishioners, active and responsible ones, we hope.

Loyola College is an educational institution, completely independent, financially and administratively, from the archdiocese. But both are engaged in a common task: building men of intelligence and spirit, of action and charity, who will be a credit to their college, their church and their country, and pleasing in the sight of their God.

Greyhound Salutes Paul F. Cawthorne

"It is amazing, considering what could have gone wrong, that so very little did go wrong," Paul Cawthorne was heard saying after the final performance of "Othello" last Saturday evening.

"Any Shakespearean tragedy requires a great deal of attention and tedious detail," he added. Perhaps the fact that Paul gave the attention and mastered the detail is part of the explanation for his widely acclaimed performance as Iago.

But acting is not the only talent which Paul has developed while here at Loyola. On Saturday afternoon, in between "Othello" performances, he was on hand as manager of the Cross Country team at the Invitational Tournament held here. And when Cross Country season is over, he will continue as manager of the swimming and track teams.

He was in the Sodality and Glee Club as a junior. Other activities include the St. John Berchmans Society, History Academy, Alpha Sigma Nu and Student Council.

In his capacity as recording secretary of the Student Council, he has a good opportunity to watch the functioning of the group.

"The new administration of the College, and its positive attitude toward student problems is a welcome sight," he states. "We the student body, should take full advantage of this situation and air all our problems through the Council."

Paul is a graduate of Kenwood

High School and has attended two other colleges previous to Loyola. He spent over two years at Kenyon College and one at Towson State. But he can be quoted as saying that he has enjoyed his time at Loyola more than the time spent elsewhere.

It seems that Loyola students specialize in getting weird jobs over summer vacation. Paul is no exception. He worked as a trail guide on the Appalachian Trail this past summer. He enjoyed it greatly. "You are bound to meet all sorts of personalities on a job like that," he said, "and I did."

In a recent issue of the Greyhound you had occasion to meet the fifteen Loyola seniors selected for the College Who's Who. And you noticed that Paul Cawthorne's name was on the list.

We have a suggestion for the cafeteria's Thanksgiving menu. Cranberries — 25c, with cancer — 5c extra.

A fund should be set up to provide extra clothing for all the R.O.T.C. members who had to wear their uniforms to school this week.

We would like to point out that we use familiar terms occasionally, only with the intention of showing our affection.

The wounds inflicted in the play "Othello" must have been serious, as we have a report that some of the cast were still weak at 5:30 the next morning.

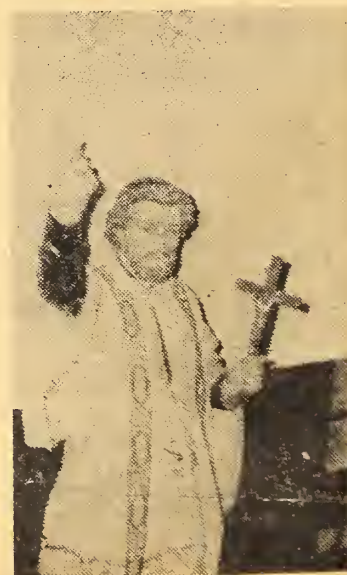

Can anyone tell us why the Marian Fathers place ads asking for priests in the "Seton High News"?

To the six seniors who took the law school aptitude test Saturday — Why?

Fortunately the Colts won last

Sunday, so the Alumni's Oyster Roast was a success.

Exactly one-half of the Loyola College soccer team's scoring punch will graduate this year. The one-half I am referring to is Jerry Beck.

The likeable senior, who started playing soccer at the age of eight is one of five soccer-playing Becks, one of which is now at Baltimore University. Jerry prepped at Mt. St. Joseph, where he played on the soccer team during his four year stint.

Since coming to the Evergreen campus, he has been a member of Coach Tommy Lind's first team. After his sophomore campaign he was named to the all Mason-Dixon Conference second team, and last year he represented Loyola on the all M.-D. first team.

Jerry, who is in the Business Administration course, plans to go into the service after graduation.

He says his top thrill in his many years of playing soccer was his scoring of two goals against a strong Maryland team in a game which the Green lost 4-2.

Graduating along with Jerry are Tom Jones and Ed Zepp. Although these two kickers did not play soccer before they came to Evergreen, they developed into fine booters through their play on the Green and Gray squad.

Dr. Gumnick's students welcome him back from his honeymoon. The age of chivaree is not dead.

Various states of exhaustion, elation and confusion are shown, after last week's production of "Othello". See comment on page one.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By BILL LOHNES

Greyhound Sports Editor

It's time for some congratulating.

Congratulations to Tommy Lind, and, to borrow Chuck Thompson's expression, "his capable crew," on an interesting and rugged soccer season.

The pitchmen this year, were much more representative than some previous teams, providing some surprising upsets, notably the wins over Catholic U. and Washington College.

Against the Sho'men the Hounds outfought, outhustled, outkicked, and outclawed a much stronger and nationally ranked team.

Congratulations to Bill Klarner, swimming coach, for putting his idea of taking movies to study swimming form into practice.

Klarner, who also publishes swimming team bulletins and who devised the outdoor workout system, showed the movie to natator Marty Pilsch, pointed out his mistakes, and then told him how to correct them.

Pilsch obliged by knocking 15 seconds off his time and swimming one of the fastest 440's at Loyola in the last ten years.

Congratulations to Bill McElroy and the "successful six" of Paul Sherman, Stack Burton, Lew Smith, Hank McGraw, Wayne Leidner, and Mike Burton for another undefeated season.

The harriers ran their string to 15 in a row, their latest victory being the Loyola Invitational last Saturday.

Congratulations to Nap Doherty on the way in which the football and tennis intramurals have been conducted.

Congratulations to you, the student body, for picking up as many season books in ten days, as were picked up all last season — now, let's put them to use.

Ed Zepp and Jerry Beck are caught rehashing the past soccer season. See feature on page five.

Loyola Takes Invitational M-D Tournament Tomorrow

Coach Bill McElroy has an optimistic outlook on the Mason-Dixon cross-country tournament to be held at Washington College at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

"We should have high hopes," Mac said, "because this is the best team I have had out here in years. This is the first time that I can say that we have an honest to goodness chance." His optimism is based on the fact that this year's harriers have a 6-0 log in regular season competition. This record includes wins over Catholic U., Mt. Saint Mary's, Galludet, Towson State Teachers, Washington College and Hopkins. Besides this, the cross-countrymen won the Second Annual Invitational Tournament held at Evergreen last Saturday.

Having won all their dual meets in the last two and a half years, the Greyhounds must be considered one of the favorites along with Roanoke College, the defending champ, Bridgewater, and Mount St. Mary's.

The Field consists of 140 runners from 13 colleges. Individuals who must be recognized as the top threats are Wayne Gallatin, B.U.'s single entry and winner of the Invitational last week in record time, Mike Halpin of C.U., Bob Jenkins of Roanoke, Earl Moore of Washington College, Don Muaskin of Towson, Jim Murphy and Pat Muldoon of the Mount, along with our own Paul Sherman.

Each team is allowed 12 entries. The Hounds will field a team of ten which includes, Captain Paul Sherman, Lew Smith, Hank McGraw, Stack Burton, Wayne Leidner, Mike Abromaitis, Frank Schapf, Bucky McCarthy, Bill Jenkins and Mike Burton.

The team has had a very successful season and regardless of the results of this tourney, congratulations are due the members for their fine efforts.

Get 'Em Now

With basketball season rapidly approaching, only 234 students have picked up their season books.

Of these 234, 100 are held by freshmen, 50 by juniors, 44 by sophomores, and only 40 by seniors. With the opening game against American University on December 5th, only a few short weeks away, it might be a good idea to go down to the gym on any day, between 9 and 3, and pick up your book. There is no charge and bringing a date is only an extra 50c.

So how about it, let's all get those season books and have a large and enthusiastic turnout for opening game and every game thereafter.

Intramural Items

By MATT SCHWIENTECK

Smirnoff's upset the Moleskins 12-7 in a replay of a 6-6 tie.

Smirnoff's jumped off to a quick lead when Ray Short hit Hugh Coyle with a 49 yard touchdown pass. Then on the next series of downs Short spotted DiNenna in the clear at the 40 yard line. DiNenna hauled in the pass and raced into the end zone for the score.

The Moleskins then scored on a pass from Lomp to Heally of seven yards. A pass from Lomp to Carey was good for the extra point.

A penalty averted a possible Moleskin victory. A 50 yard run by Lomp was called back when an offside penalty was called.

O'Kee Fen O'Kee vs Tall Men

The O'Kee Fen O'Kee were eliminated as the Tall Men garnered a 6-0 victory.

Animal Graham scored on a 15 yard pass play for the Tall Men.

Houndogs Tie Dukes

The Houndogs tied the Dukes 6-6. An interception in the last three minutes of play by Dave Gardner brought the Hounds from behind to deadlock the game. Wessel scored for the Dukes.

Moleskins Maul Tall Men

The Tall Men were swamped by the Moleskins 35-0.

Lou Lomp scored three touchdowns while Seeley and Pete Powley each scored one.

Hounds Improve In First Period Of Practice Tilt

By LAWRENCE R. STURM

Loyola's hoopsters showed signs of improvement in their scrimmage against Georgetown. This was their third scrimmage this year in an effort to prepare for the season opener against American U. on December 5th, at 8:30.

After two disappointing scrimmages against Navy and Aberdeen, the Hounds looked good in the first period of this one, but faltered in the second and third.

In the first period with John Heagney, Mike Sneeringer, Joe O'Hara, Ed Murn, and Dave Carney in the lineup, Loyola outscored the Hoyas, 45-38. Mike Sneeringer and John Heagney provided the main scoring punch.

The second period proved to be disappointing for the Hounds. With a different five in the lineup, they hit for only twelve points.

Loyola came back in the third period, but they were not able to overcome the advantage which Georgetown had gained in the second period.

How They're Shaping Up

Considering the training season in its entirety, John Heagney, a junior from New York, has done the best all around job. Mike Sneeringer has improved over last year, but he is still a little slow on defense. Taking into consideration that he is on a strict diet, Joe O'Hara has looked good. Ed Murn, who was looking good early in the season, has just returned to the lineup after a shoulder injury. Dave Carney has shown a lot of hustle, and he could help the team if his ball-handling improves. If all the difficulties can be ironed out, the team should have a good season.

Don't miss the first annual Freshman - Varsity Basketball Game. This Monday at 3:15.
